

Reflection: How do I personally contribute to the common good?

I contribute to the common good by doing small acts that make a big difference. I participate in community clean-ups and tree planting activities to help protect the environment. Whenever there are donation drives or relief efforts, I try to lend a helping hand by sharing what I can with those in need. I also encourage others to take care of our surroundings and be kind to one another. I believe that promoting cleanliness, caring for nature, and showing compassion to others are ways we can all build a better, stronger, and more united community.
