

Act 1 Reflection

How do I personally contribute to the common good?

I contribute to the common good by doing small acts that make a big difference. I participate in community clean-ups and tree planting activities to help protect the environment. Whenever there are donation drives or relief efforts, I try to lend a helping hand by sharing what I can with those in need. I also encourage others to take care of our surroundings and be kind to one another. I believe that promoting cleanliness, caring for nature, and showing compassion to others are ways we can all build a better, stronger, and more united community.

Act 4 reflection

“How can I be a catalyst for change in my own context?”

I can be a catalyst for change by being kind and standing up against bullying whenever I see it. I can encourage my classmates to speak respectfully and support each other instead of putting others down. By using empathy, education, and courage, I can help make my school a place where everyone feels safe, accepted, and valued. Even small actions, when done with kindness, can create a big difference.
